2.4. Research Projects

Project Leadership

- 2016- Principal Investigator of an ERC Project intitled MAPLE, which analyses the importance which Europe has acquired for domestic electoral behavior. Funding attributed: 1.6 million euros.

- 2016- Project Director in IPP- Institute of Public Policies – of a Project on the financial impact of the introduction of the preferential vote in Portugal. Funding attributed: 18.000 euros. Financed by FLAD.
- 2015 Project Director of Bússola Eleitoral, a Voting Advice Application which was implemented 1 month before the elections in October 2015 in Portugal.
- 2013- Project Director, of a study of EU Citizenship in Portugal in a multidimensional way. The project is financed by the European Commission in Portugal and the Fundação Francisco Manuel dos Santos. It groups a number of specialists from different disciplines (sociology, economics, political science, law) and will produce a volume on Portugal and EU citizenship in Portugal, to be published in 2013.
- 2013- Principal Investigator of a Project entitled “Citizens’ Resilience in the most Crisis-hit countries in a comparative Perspective” submitted to a call in the FP7 framework. This project includes political scientists, historians and social psychologists from 7 institutions in Europe. Its proposed budget is 2.5 million euros. The project was very positively evaluated by the European Commission, (13/15) but did not obtain funding.
- 2012- Core cv member of a project entitled IASPP, “Infrastructure on Social and Political Attitudes of the Portuguese”. This project is led by Jorge Vala. This project combines an infrastructure for the study of political behavior and of social attitudes in Portugal, building on two long-standing projects in the ICS, namely the Electoral Behaviour project and the European Social Surveys Project.
- 2012- Principal Investigator of a Project entitled “Personalisation of Politics in XXIst century”. Project financed with 75.000 euros by the Science and Technology Foundation.
- 2009- Project Director of “Bússola Eleitoral” (Electoral Compass) which created a Voting Advice Application (VAA) in the Portuguese Legislative Elections of 2009. (www.bussola eleitoral.pt). This was the first ever VAA created in Portugal and 175,000 individuals responded to the online questionnaire. Project Financed by Gulbenkian Foundation and Luso-American Foundation (total funds obtained: 30,000 euros).

This research links to work I have developed in the electoral studies arena. Yet it is very new, in that for the first time in Portugal an online political survey was developed, and with this type of success. Also, we have now characterised with political statements from official documents twelve parties in the Portuguese spectrum, which gives us a very rich and complex understanding of Portuguese parties positioning today.

- 2001- Co-Director of a project entitled “Electoral Behaviour and Political Attitudes in a Comparative Perspective” together with André Freire (until 2007) and Pedro Magalhães. Project financed by the following institutions: Foundation for Science and Technology, Tinker Foundation, Gulbenkian Foundation, Luso American Foundation and Government Departments for the Observation of Elections. Total funds obtained: 500,000 euros. (For more details, please consult www.ceapp.ics.ul.pt).

This Project effectively launched the “Portuguese Election Studies”. Since 2002 we have been responsible for applying post-election surveys in the main elections in Portugal (Legislative and Presidential), and for publishing several volumes which characterise the Portuguese elector, in a contextual and a comparative perspective.

Within this project, I have specialised in the topic of leader effects, their magnitude, their substantive meaning, their relationship to types of parties, and their differential impact among specific types of elector, both in a longitudinal and comparative perspective.

Through the creation of this project I have become involved in a series of international research projects (see below). This is also the project which has fuelled most of my publications.
